WOOD FIRED TERRACOTTA IN ITALY - The clay work in the studio at Spannocchia will serve as a vehicle to study and experience the rich cultural history of the region. Through field trips to nearby Florence, Siena, Colle di Val D'Elsa, and San Galgano we will explore this incredible wealth of art, history, & architecture. Conversely, the surrounding landscape, art, and culture will serve as inspiration for the clay work in the studio. We will use local terracotta clay for forming and some materials found on the estate for surface treatments. The emphasis will be on experimentation, creativity and enjoying the process of working with clay using rapid hand building techniques. No prerequisites or previous experience with clay work is required. Open to all levels. The session will culminate with finishing our work in the wood fired kiln.

Field Trip to Ecuador: The class visits many field sites in Ecuador where students examine plants at diverse climatic, elevational and vegetational settings. Students collect and identify plants, observe and dissect material, and become familiar with economically important tropical and temperate plants. Working with Ecuadorian botanists and students, we conduct plant surveys in several locations. Plants collected in these surveys are identified and specimens deposited with regional and national herbaria. This is a field course with 29 days of study abroad. Class will meet at Brown Hall, Rm 320, from 9:00-3:00; June 6, 7 and July 11, 12.

BLUE 5956 050 Northeast Tennessee has a rich and varied history in traditional American Music as any region in the country. From the seminal Bristol Sessions to live performance radio, the Tri-Cities region has played an important role in the commercialization of country music. Additionally, the informal and social setting for the music has played equally as important a role in its development as an art form. The course will cover early frontier settlement through 1941, the beginning of WWII.

Do you want to learn some practical chemistry? Do you want to earn some teaching experiences? Do you want to prepare yourself to be a multi-culturally educated professional greatly desired by employers and graduate programs? Here is the opportunity. Diversity in East Tennessee is designed to be an interdisciplinary elective course that will provide you a cultural immersion experience in Washington, Greene and Unicoi counties. You will have opportunities to improve chemistry learning through small class setting and direct contact with the professor; practice science teaching in community settings through service to Hispanic migrant children at various ages; develop a better understanding of multiculturalism; and make a difference in the lives of immigrant families. For more information please contact Prof. Ardis Nelson at nelsona@etsu.edu or Prof. Peter Zhao at zhaon@etsu.edu. Students must register for this course prior to the first official day of Summer Session I classes, June 2, or incur a late fee. This course does not count toward a major or minor in chemistry.

The purpose of this course is to facilitate student awareness, knowledge, and skills in counseling children through the use of play and expressive arts in counseling. Theoretical orientations to play therapy, foundations of play therapy, the play therapy process, and treatment planning in play therapy are major areas of focus for this course. Play media such as toys, creative dramatics, puppets and dolls, art, music, games, adventure-based activities, and sand tray will be integrated into the course curriculum. Demonstrations, experiential activity, and discussions of readings are the primary methods of teaching and learning the theory and practice of play therapy. Both directive and non-directive play counseling experiences are included. Although children are the focus of study, play media also are examined as applicable to other age levels.

HIST 4957-090 Special Topics in History: Diversity in East Tennessee June 15-August 8: Prepare yourself to be a multi-culturally educated professional much desired by employers and graduate programs. This interdisciplinary course provides a cultural immersion experience in Washington, Green & Unicoi Counties. You will learn in classroom and community-based settings, and your learning is enhanced through direct service and application of history concepts. You will get to develop and teach history lessons to children of various ages. Make a difference in the lives of Hispanic migrant children ages 3-17 and their families! Readings on Mexican culture, a novel by a Hispanic woman on her experience growing up in a migrant family, and assignments directed by a History faculty member are also included in this summer course. For more information contact Ardis Nelson at nelsona@etsu.edu or Dale Schmitt at schmittd@etsu.edu. Students must register for this course prior to the first official day of Summer Session I classes, June 2, or they may incur a late fee. Students may earn a maximum of three credit hours in all departments for Diversity in East Tennessee.

Special Topics in Journalism: Diversity in East Tennessee June 15-August 8. Prepare yourself to be a multi-culturally educated professional much desired by employers and graduate programs. This interdisciplinary course provides a cultural immersion experience in Washington, Greene & Unicoi counties. You will learn in classroom and community-based settings, and your learning is enhanced through direct service and application of Communications and Journalism concepts. Make a difference in the lives of Hispanic migrant children ages 3-17 and their families! Readings on Mexican culture, a novel by a Hispanic woman on her experience growing up in a migrant family, and assignments directed by a Communications faculty member are also included in this summer course. For more information contact Ardis Nelson at nelsona@etsu.edu or Jack Mooney at mooneyj@etsu.edu. Students must register for this course prior to the first official day of Summer Session I classes, June 2, or they may incur a late fee. Students may earn a maximum of three credit hours in all departments for Diversity in East Tennessee.

PLAY THE PIANO IN 25 DAYS: This special topics course will offer hands-on instruction in the elements of keyboard playing, reading music, and rhythm. Students will learn the mechanics of playing the piano, develop music reading skills, and gain an understanding of basic harmony. These objectives will be met through the use of classical and popular melodies, as well as folk songs from around the world, jazz and blues favorites, and beloved spirituals. This course is designed for non-music majors with no prior background in playing piano or reading music.

NOTE: PHYS-4860-090 Special Topics in PHYS: Diversity in East Tennessee Prepare yourself to be a multi-culturally educated professional much desired by employers and graduate programs. This interdisciplinary course provides a cultural immersion experience in Washington, Greene & Unicoi counties. You will learn in classroom and community-based settings, and your learning is enhanced through direct service and application of basic physics concepts. You will be of assistance in developing and teaching physics lessons to children of various ages. Make a difference in the lives of Hispanic migrant children ages 3-17 and their families! Readings on Mexican culture, a novel by a Hispanic woman on her experience growing up in a migrant family, and assignments directed by a Physics faculty member are also included in this summer course. For more information, contact Ardis Nelson at nelsona@etsu.edu or Frank Hagelberg at hagelber@etsu.edu. Students must register for this course prior to the first official day of Summer Session I classes, June 2, or they may incur a late fee. Students may earn a maximum of three credit hours in all departments for Diversity in East Tennessee.

What constitutes "good" citizenship? Can I be a decent human being if I'm not a good citizen? Is good leadership possible? Will good leadership bring peace to the world? Does good leadership guarantee good government? Is free market capitalism the answer to the world's problems? Is socialism really "dead"? This course will entertain these and other questions within the context of a spirited yet serious "conversation" about an encounter with in the political aspects of our lives. For more information, please call Dr. Kenneth Mijeski at 439-6627.

PSCI 4450-001 is "Appalachian Politics." Our region has grown and changed dramatically. New shopping centers, restaurants, and subdivisions have sprouted up all over. Medical and other services have expanded greatly. But are all these changes good? What have been the costs of this growth? More traffic, more flooding, rapidly disappearing farmland, and environmental problems have come with it. What can we do about these? Are we losing our identity as we grow? Are we becoming "anyplace" just "no place" in particular? Do we have a local landscape, a local culture, a local "personality" that is worth saving? Readings, lectures, road-trips, and discussions with public officials and active citizens. There will also be an over-night field trip. For additional information, call Dr. Joe Corso at 439-8436.

PSCI 4957/5957-090 Special Topics in Political Science: Diversity in East Tennessee. June 15 - August 8. Prepare yourself to be a multi-culturally educated professional much desire by employers and graduate programs. This interdisciplinary course provides a cultural immersion experience in Washington, Greene & Unicoi counties. You will learn in classroom and community-based settings, and your learning is enhanced through direct service and application of political science concepts. You will get to develop and plan political science lessons to children of various ages. Make a difference in the lives of Hispanic migrant children ages 3-17 and their families! Readings on Mexican culture, a novel by a Hispanic woman on her experience growing up in a migrant family, and assignments directed by a Political Science faculty member are also included in this summer course. For more information contact Ardis Nelson at nelsona@etsu.edu or Marsha Beeler at beeler@etsu.edu.

SPORT IN THE CINEMA: The cinema (film) is powerful medium that can shape psychosocial perceptions of sports, athletes, and coaches, as well as reflect the roles sports, athletes, and coaches have in our society. This course will investigate the view of sports, athletes, and coaches as presented by film. The students will analyze film productions, write and discuss criticisms that address the roles of sports, athletes, and coaches as seen by the camera and perceived by individuals and society. Materials will emphasize American cinema, but will not exclude foreign and independent productions. Students will acquire an understanding of the language of sport as they focus on the power of the media to impact beliefs, psychosocial issues, and stereotypes related to the individual within the American society.

SOWK 4957/5957 - 090 Special Topics in SOWK: Diversity in East Tennessee June 15 - August 8 Prepare yourself to be a multi-culturally educated professional much desired by employers and graduate programs. This interdisciplinary course offered in the Social Work department provides a cultural immersion experience in Washington, Greene & Unicoi counties. You will learn in classroom and community-based settings, and your learning is enhanced through direct service and application of diversity and social work concepts. Make a difference in the lives of Hispanic migrant children ages 3-17 and their families! Social Work students will work with the migrant children of all ages teaching them various social skills relevant to their age group. Readings on Mexican culture, a novel by a Hispanic woman on her experience growing up in a migrant family, and assignments related to social work are also a part of this course. For more information contact Ardis Nelson at nelsona@etsu.edu or Dorothy Dobbins at dobbinsd@etsu.edu. Students must register for this course prior to the first official day of Summer Session I classes, June 2, or they may incur a late fee. Students may earn a maximum of three credit hours in all departments for Diversity in East Tennessee.
