This course involves illustration practices as well as scholarly exploration of fairy and folk tales. Through a series of exercises utilizing wet and dry media on paper such as watercolor and ink and collage, students will develop a personal illustrative aesthetic with which to create a series of contemporary illustrations of a traditional folk tale or fairy tale. Possible subjects for the illustrations could expand to include mythology, re-imagined events in history, and ghost stories. The works of illustrators, both historic and contemporary, as well as that of artists whose work draws from illustration, will be looked at throughout the course.

BIOL 1010-900 is an ONLINE course offered through the ETSU Biological Sciences Department and requires a permit to register. Send permits requests along with your E# and course CRN to connere@etsu.edu.  Students will not be required to meet on campus or online at scheduled times. A distance learning laboratory kit (purchased separately) is mandatory; information for obtaining this kit* will be provided by your instructor. For minimum system computer requirements and additional information, please go here: https://www.etsu.edu/onlinehelp/student_help/tech_resources.php (you will need to copy/paste the link). Please be advised that for the 900 section you will be responsible for watching/listening to lectures on D2L and completing assignments and assessments by the posted deadlines for each. You will be required to submit electronic photos and/or video recordings of yourself performing the home-based lab exercises in order to receive full credit. Other requirements will be addressed by the instructor. Students wishing to attend a campus-based classroom section must enroll in another section of BIOL 1010. The lab portion is included in this course. You are not required to register for the BIOL 1011 co-requisite.

Note: ENVH 5957 001 "Environmental Forensics" - The curriculum will consist of a series of case studies that are arranged to address environmental toxicology and health issues organized into several broad categories: Air quality, Water quality, Land use, Occupational health and safety, and Global effects of human activity. The cases will be designed to address environmental problems that are relevant to the Appalachian region and broadly across the United States, as well as globally. This course is open to all undergraduate and graduate students. Preference given to students within the College of Public Health. If you have ever wondered or wanted to explore more about the health of the environment, you are invited to take a journey with us!! For further information, please contact the department at (423) 439-5243.

NOTE: MATH 1710-FD1 meets the first seven weeks of the term (January 18 - March 4) and has required in-person meetings twice per week. This section has a substantial technology-based component. Students must have regular internet access. Examinations will be proctored at the Testing Center, on the first floor of the Sherrod Library. Students must do preparation work prior to each in-person meeting, including but not limited to reading materials, watching video lectures, and participating in online discussion boards. This is often known as a "flipped classroom."

NOTE: MATH 2010-990 is a live video streaming section. Students will log in to the live class using a computer at the same time MATH 2010-001 is scheduled. The proctoring policy of this course may require you to attend an approved Testing Center. Please contact the instructor (cintronarias@etsu.edu) for questions concerning this policy. The methodology of choice in this section is known as "Flip the Classroom," where students are expected to have internet access regularly. Moreover, it is expected students do preparation work prior to each lecture, including: reading materials; watching video lectures; and answering online quizzes.

NOTE: MATH 1720-FE1 meets the last seven weeks of the term (March 7 - April 29) and has required in-person meetings twice per week. This section has a substantial technology-based component. Students must have regular internet access. Examinations will be proctored at the Testing Center, on the first floor of the Sherrod Library. Students must do preparation work prior to each in-person meeting, including but not limited to reading materials, watching video lectures, and participating in online discussion boards. This is often known as a "flipped classroom."

Special Topics Course Description: SOWK 4957-201: This course introduces the theories of creative arts as healing and illustrate the use of creative activities in social work contexts, including work with individual, families, groups, and community development settings. It is a practical course with hands-on experience to the use of creative activities in expression, communication, and healing. Students will have the opportunity to experiment with creative activities from different art media including visual art, craft work, music, and writing. The course is not a formal art therapy training but offers opportunities for exploring the resources of creative activities in social work context.

SPED 5302 will use hybrid instructional methods. There will be four face-to-face instructional sessions (January 26, February 2, March 2, March 30) throughout the semester during the Wednesday 4:00 p.m. – 8:30 p.m. time period. Course participants will have two additional planning sessions during the allotted time. Students registered for this course are required to have a LiveText subscription. A LiveText subscription only needs to be purchased one time and can be used in all courses in which it is required (up to 5 years). Purchase LiveText at the bookstore or www.livetext.com.
