Many of the most decisive turning points in the history of the world have been battles. More than just conflicts between armies, such moments often represent fundamental clashes among rival religions; cultures; and social, political, and economic systems. The outcomes of these battles have dramatically transformed and shaped the course of history, often sending it on unexpected or completely new paths. This course examines twenty-five such pivotal moments by studying weapons and doctrines of the time, analyzing tactical actions in detail, highlighting and exposing critical points or personalities responsible for the battle outcomes, and reflecting upon the near- and long-term strategic significance of those outcomes.

We will examine the theory and practice of warfare during the American Revolution, 1775-1783 by analyzing the operational context, doctrinal concepts, tactics, techniques, and procedures employed in several key battles. Included in the course will be lessons that provide an overview of the strategic environment and political context for the military struggle; orient students to contemporary military organizations, doctrine, tactics, equipment, technology, rank structures, logistics, and living conditions; enable students to develop analysis tools based upon the Principles of War and Aspects of Terrain; and discuss and analyze tactical conduct and results of the Battles from both perspectives and well as analyze the operational and strategic impacts of Battles.

This course will examine firearms laws and policy in the United States, including the Second Amendment to the United States Constitution, various state constitutional provisions, and federal and state statutes. The course will focus on United States Supreme Court's decisions in District of Columbia v. Heller (2008), McDonald v. City of Chicago (2010), and New York State Rifle and Pistol Association v. Bruen (2022), and the contemporary litigation that continues. The course will also explore the historical roots of the Second Amendment, the firearms regulatory environment, and the political and legal issues pertaining to firearm rights-enforcement and policy design.

ONLINE PROGRAM OPTION -- SOWK 4957-941 Special Topics: This class will meet WEEKLY as a group, via ZOOM, during the time listed. Course Title: Creative Activities in Social Work - This course introduces the theories of creative arts as healing and illustrate the use of creative activities in social work contexts, including work with individual, families, groups, and community development settings. It is a practical course with hands-on experience to the use of creative activities in expression, communication, and healing. Students will have the opportunity to experiment with creative activities from different art media including visual art, craft work, music, and writing. The course is not a formal art therapy training but offers opportunities for exploring the resources of creative activities in social work context.
